

BAKER KILLED AFTER THREATS BY BLACK HAND

Frank Nunno Dragged from Wagon, Stabbed and Pockets Rifled Near Ardsley.

Frank Nunno, a prosperous young baker of Ardsley, Westchester County, was found murdered yesterday afternoon beside his delivery wagon at a lonely spot on the Saw Mill River road, between Hastings and Ardsley. He had been stabbed in the jugular vein.

Nunno left his bake shop early in the morning, taking with him a large sum of money. The Saw Mill River road runs through a wild, sparsely settled country and few travel it.

Shortly after noon W. L. Odell, of Ardsley, came upon Nunno's horse, which had been out loose from the delivery wagon and was standing at the side of the road. Further along he saw Nunno lying in the middle of the roadway. His wagon overturned, lay in a ditch.

Nunno's pockets were turned inside out and his money and silver watch were gone. The roadway was torn up and blood stained for a distance of twenty feet, showing that Nunno and his assailants had engaged in a terrific struggle. Faint marks in the dirt proved that several men were concerned in the murder. It was evident that the baker had been surprised and dragged from his wagon and that he had fought his assailants until slain.

The murdered man had been married six months. Recently he received several letters signed "Black Hand," demanding that he leave money in certain places designated by the writers. The county authorities believe that the murder was committed by bandits who shot and robbed an insurance agent near Elmford two weeks ago and looted a number of post-offices in the county.

SWALLOWS ACID AS OFFICER WAITS AFTER HER ARREST

Jersey Woman Accused of Taking Girl's Money Prefers Death to Jail.

(Special to The Evening World.)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 15.—Mrs. Alberta Lumsden, the district visiting nurse maintained here by the Visiting Nurses' Association for the benefit of the poor, is dying at St. Peter's Hospital from nitric acid, taken with suicidal intent.

A complaint of embezzling $146 was made by Rosina Mosier, a servant employed in the home of former Mayor Drury Cooper, and when Police Sergeant Kelly went to her home last night to serve the warrant she received him pleasantly and asked to be allowed to dress.

Mrs. Lumsden then entered her bedroom, locked the door and swallowed the contents of a two-ounce bottle of the acid she screamed with pain and Kelly broke into the room as she fell unconscious on the bed.

Mrs. Lumsden is about forty years old. She did district work in San Francisco and general nursing in New York. When the plan of a district nurse was set on foot here she became interested in the work. The woman is said to have a good income of her own and her friends deny the embezzlement story.

The complainant declares that while she was cook at the City Tuberculosis Home, where Mrs. Lumsden was in charge, the latter took $150 to put in the bank for her, giving what purported to be a deposit book. She later drew $150 and, noticing the entry was in a woman's hand, went to the bank and found, she says, no such deposit had been made.

Mrs. Lumsden was mentioned as the principal witness in a case instituted against two local physicians for alleged cruelty to animals in performing vivisection experiments.

HEIRS BEAT U. S. IN FIGHT FOR $150,000

Will of Capt. Hooker, Who Named Roosevelt Executor, Set Aside by Court.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Surrogate Seiden S. Brown has handed down a decision setting aside the will of the late Capt. James H. Hooker, who died Feb. 28, 1907, leaving all of his property with the exception of one bequest of $1,000 to his nephew, Frederick Benjamin, and $20,000 for the erection of a monument to himself to the United States, to be used in the building of a military academy at Gatesburg, Ill. President Theodore Roosevelt was named as executor.

Capt. Hooker died at his home in the town of Irondequoit, aged seventy-four years, and at the time of his demise was possessed of an estate valued at about $150,000. For years he had been known to be eccentric, and when his will was offered for probate and it was found that his next kin had been cut off entirely and his property left to the United States, the nephews and nieces immediately began a contest, alleging that Hooker was incompetent.

The case had many hearings in the Surrogate Court, and much sensational testimony regarding the alleged eccentric acts of the captain was adduced.
